

This Privacy Policy (“Privacy Policy”) describes the personal information that may be collected by us, what we might use your personal information for, when we might disclose your personal information, the choices you can make about your personal information and how we handle your information.

This Privacy Policy applies to our website (including all interactive features, applications or downloads available through these websites). By using the Website, you acknowledge that you’ve read and understood this Privacy Policy.

When you interact with us on the internet, our system automatically sends you a ‘cookie’. A cookie is a small amount of information sent from a web server to your computer, electronic tablet or smart phone that enables your device to be recognised. It is used to handle your internet sessions on that device and contains a unique identifier.

Other information stored by the cookie includes website traffic data. This data is not used to identify individual details. We only collate the data into anonymous results in order to evaluate and improve our internet user ability and services. You may disable cookies using your browser’s preferences, but some features of the Website may not function if you do so.

Please remember that whenever you voluntarily give personal information publicly online – for example on message boards, through e-mail, or in chat areas – that information can be collected and used by others. If you provide personal information on forums like that – you do so at your own risk.

We do not disclose personal information to third parties unless we are permitted to do so by law or you have given us your consent to do so. Third parties we may disclose personal information to include:

- our related companies;
- our service providers including IT service providers, major delivery companies, mail houses and third party fulfilment contractors;
- our professional advisors including our accountants, auditors and lawyers;
- payment system operators and financial institutions; or
- government agencies.